Hanoi Again Criticizes U.S. Stand

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam accused the United States today of resorting to "ill-founded pretexts to shun or postpone contacts" for peace talks.

"It is quite clear that the U.S. still shows no sign of goodwill," said Hanoi's official newspaper Nhan Dan.

The paper issued similar charges on Friday. Hanoi said the United States, while refusing sites for preliminary peace talks including Phnom Penh and Warsaw, had escalated its attacks against North Vietnamese targets.

The article, signed "commentator," said "after refusing to use Phnom Penh as a place for contacts between representatives of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the U.S., the U.S. government has rejected the idea of choosing Warsaw as another venue."

Referring to U.S. presidential spokesman George Christian's statement Thursday that the U.S. government wanted contacts in a neutralist country, it said "it is common knowledge that Cambodia is a neutralist, peace-loving country."

U.S. officials also have disputed Hanoi's contention that Johnson is going back on his word in objecting to Warsaw and Phnom Penh as meeting locations.

They said neither Hanoi nor Washington has rejected the other's site proposals finally even though they have not reached agreement. They said they hope Hanoi still is sincerely interested in talks. They left open the possibility of an agreement on location within the next few days.

The United States contends the talks should be held at a place providing a neutral atmosphere fair to both sides, where both sides have diplomatic creditation and facilities are available for rapid communication back to Washington. It has suggested Vientiane, Rangoon, Jakarta, New Delhi, Geneva, Bern, Vienna and Bonn.

Slipped Through Security

Salesman Crashed King Funeral

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A white man who was an usher at the funeral of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was not authorized by the arrangements committee despite security precautions for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

It was learned Friday that the usher was an encyclopedia salesman named Floyd "Buddy" Ayers of Stone Mountain, Ga.

The King family thought he was with the Secret Service, the minister in charge of arrangements thought he was a governor's aide and the Secret Service apparently thought he had clearance.

'Right This Way' Ayers, who had seated former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, also led Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., to a pew.

An Associated Press newsman overheard him say to the senator, "Come right this way, Robert. We have security here."

5 Missions Flown in S. Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — American B52 bombers pounded enemy positions up and down South Vietnam in five missions today after killing 200 Viet Cong soldiers in a rare strike in the Mekong Delta, the U.S. Command said.

The B52s, which fly too high to be seen or heard from the ground, dropped tons of explosives Friday on enemy troop concentrations, weapons positions and a storage area in Vinh Binh Province, 74 miles southwest of Saigon, military spokesmen said.

South Vietnamese troops reported finding 200 Viet Cong bodies when they swept through the area four hours after the eight-engine Stratofortresses struck.

Most Killed

If their count is correct, it is the largest number of enemy troops ever reported killed in a single B52 mission in the nearly three years the giant bombers have been supporting allied forces in South Vietnam.

So far in the war, the Stratofortresses have flown perhaps only a dozen or so missions in the delta.

The other raids today were against enemy buildup areas west of Kontum City in the central highlands near the Cambodian border, near Khe Sanh and southwest of Hue.

In air raids against North Vietnam, U.S. headquarters said the new F111A swing-wing fighter-bombers resumed combat.

Atty. Gen. Clark Still Hopes Murder Arrest 'Will be Soon'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — FBI agents have uncovered "very substantial" physical evidence as they work "around the clock pursuing every lead" in the search for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s assassin, says Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

"The FBI is devoting every possible resource to this investigation," Clark said. "While it remains impossible to predict when the killer will be arrested, I remain hopeful that it will be soon."

A Justice Department spokesman said the statement issued in Washington Friday night, Clark's first public pronouncement on the case in five days, was in response to newsmen's queries.

But Clark, like FBI officials, refused to answer newsmen's questions. "All I can say is no comment," said Robert Jensen, special agent in charge of the Memphis FBI office.

King was shot and killed by a sniper April 4 as he stood outside his motel room here.

In Washington, Rep. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R-Ohio, said a welter of "premature and contradictory statements" was clouding the investigation and asked the FBI to "set the record straight."

"The handling of the investigation and the efforts to apprehend the guilty person or persons hardly has been reassuring to a tense and troubled nation," Whalen said in a news release.

The search for the assassin has spread hundreds of miles from Memphis, sources report, and involve thousands of investigators.

'Already Here'

The scope of the investigation was evident Friday in both Memphis and Birmingham. Newsmen seeking to question persons who might have information about the case were told repeatedly: "The FBI has already been here."

At the Memphis rooming house from which the fatal shot was fired, Charles Q. Stevens said FBI agents had shown him two composite drawings of the suspected slayer—one a partial profile and the other a full face view.

Stevens said he could identify the partial view, but not the full face view. He said he saw the gunman flee after hearing a shot fired from a communal bathroom next door to his room.

The bathroom window affords a clear view of the motel balcony where King was standing when shot.

Questions on Galt And at a rooming house in Birmingham, residents said FBI agents had questioned them about Eric Starvo Galt, a white man named in an FBI bulletin issued, then withdrawn, in Florida Thursday night.

The message sent over the state police teletypewriter network in Florida asked help in locating Galt. It said Galt was driving a white Mustang.

Witnesses in Memphis told investigators earlier they saw a man in a white Mustang drive away from the rooming house. Records in Alabama show that a man named Galt bought a 1966 Mustang in August 1967.

Three Killed in State Accidents

The deaths of three persons since the start of the Easter weekend Friday night raised the Wisconsin traffic toll for the year to 258 Saturday. Last year at this time the toll was 206.

Leonard K. Schone, 33, route 3, Madison, was killed late Friday night when a car overturned on Dane County Trunk B about five miles south of Madison.

McNamara in Politics On Behalf of Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who has remained aloof from elective politics during seven years in Washington, is playing a modest role in the campaign of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Theodore Sorensen, a top Kennedy adviser, said Friday McNamara appears on two television tapes that will be used in Kennedy's drive to win the Democratic presidential nomination.

Hungarian Youth Gets Heart Valve of Ape

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — A youth was said to be feeling fine Friday three days after the heart valve of an ape was grafted onto his heart.

Informants said the 17-year-old patient, whose name was not revealed, felt well on Tuesday evening after the operation, ate with relish on Wednesday and has been picking up ever since.

Medical sources said the operation was the first of its kind ever done in Hungary. It was performed by Dr. Attila Arvai.

Jury Acquits Alfonsi on Charge of Taking Bribe

LANCASTER (AP) — Veteran Assemblyman Paul R. Alfonsi, son C. La Follette concerning indicted nearly two years ago on a charge of accepting a $100 bribe, wept Friday after a Circuit Court jury found him innocent.

The former speaker of the Assembly said the charge had put him through "21 months of living hell."

Alfonsi, 60-year-old Minocqua Republican, put his hands to his eyes and cried audibly when Judge Richard Orton read the jury's verdict.

Issues Statement

His eyes still red from crying, Alfonsi issued a statement after James Boll, Dane County district attorney who handled the state's case in Lancaster on a change of venue, received permission from Orton to appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Boll said he would consult with Wisconsin Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette concerning an appeal of the decision. Alfonsi remains on bond until the prosecution decides whether to appeal.

"I said on June 22, 1966, when the bribery indictment was issued against me by the Dane County grand jury that the charge was preposterous, was without valid ground, and was politically motivated," Alfonsi's statement said.

'Most Grateful'

"These have been 21 months of living hell for my entire family. We would not have survived unless my friends and constituents had expressed their confidence and belief in me. To all of them, I am most grateful."

Asst. Atty. Gen. William Platz and Boll said a decision would be made later on whether to appeal the acquittal.

If an appeal is made, Platz said, it may be based on arguments that Orton's instructions to the jury were improper.

The trial was the second for Alfonsi, who had been charged with having accepted a $100 check as a bribe from resort owner Anthony Wise of Hayward in 1964.

The State Supreme Court, in January 1967, reversed Alfonsi's 1966 conviction. The high court said the jury had not been instructed that the state had to prove Alfonsi received the $100 with intent to violate the law.

"A requirement for conviction was that the accused had engaged in this transaction with a guilty mind," the Supreme Court said.

Orton instructed the jury Friday that Alfonsi could be convicted only if it were proved that he accepted the check with the "corrupt intent" of letting his actions be influenced.

Alfonsi contended the check was a "out-of-pocket expense money," not a bribe.

He said the money was intended to cover expenses incurred in a speaking tour for a bill to accelerate highway construction.

Platz told the court that a "crime exists" regardless of whether Alfonsi intended to let the money influence his actions. He said a person could accept a bribe, understand it was a bribe, but still ignore the request made by the person who paid him the bribe.

Alfonsi said he had always supported the highway legislation in question because it was part of Gov. Warren P. Knowles' program.

Minority Leads

At the time Alfonsi received the $100 check, he was Republican minority floor leader in the Assembly.

Boll told the jury in closing arguments: "We expect legislators to vote for bills because they think they are right, not because they get money for it."

Alfonsi, Boll asserted, "got his hand caught in the cookie jar."

Alfonsi's attorney, John Fritschler Jr., asked the jury: "Would anyone accept a bribe in the form of a check, endorse it, and then deposit it in his own bank?"

"No one with a corrupt mind would do that," Fritschler said.

First Family on Texas Ranch

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson and his family have gathered in Texas for the Easter weekend—minus son-in-law Patrick J. Nugent, who has headed without fanfare for military duty in Vietnam.

Nugent, 24, an airman first class, arrived today in Vietnam where another presidential son-in-law, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, is serving as an infantry company commander.

Luci Johnson Nugent, arriving here on the presidential jet plane Friday afternoon with her parents and nine-month-old son, Patrick Lyndon, brought the news of her husband's departure overseas.

The President came to Texas for a bit of rest and relaxation at his LBJ Ranch before he goes overseas, too.

Leaves Monday

He is scheduled to leave Monday for conferences in Hawaii with Pacific military advisers and South Korean President Chung Hee Park.

Johnson also was giving top priority to efforts to get preliminary diplomatic talks started in negotiations to end the war in Vietnam.

In Washington, neither the White House nor the Pentagon had any comment on how Nugent worked a transfer to the war zone, where he said he wanted to go.

He has been assigned since March 20 to the Air National Guard's 13th Tactical Air Fighter Wing, stationed at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington. He had switched just three weeks ago from a desk job to start training as a weapons mechanic.

Luci said she saw Pat off at Andrews Thursday night. The President called the 13th to active duty shortly after Jan. 3 seizure of the USS Pueblo by North Korea. Nugent, then aboard the same Air Force jet carrying Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker back from Washington talks with the President.

Nugent was the only military passenger on the plane with Bunker.

The 13th has not received overseas orders as yet.

Nugent arrived today at the U.S. Air Force base at Cam Ranh Bay, where he will be an apprentice weapons mechanic. Earlier today, he arrived at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base aboard the same Air Force jet carrying Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker back from Washington talks with the President.

Nugent was the only military passenger on the plane with Bunker.

Current Poverty Programs Given Priority in State

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles says he has directed state agencies to give priority consideration to existing programs for alleviating poverty and unemployment.

Knowles said Thursday he also is creating a program to help jobless persons get state jobs, and that pilot projects are to be established in Madison and Milwaukee for "citizens who are trapped in poverty."

A team of state workers will handle interviews and propose jobs, he said. Knowles said he hopes the effort will inspire industry to take similar steps.

The governor said he is directing the Bureau of Personnel and the Department of Administration to help find ways of making existing programs more effective for the jobless.

Logical Play Is Best One

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

We wind up our week-long series of articles on finessing with a hand in which you have a choice among three different finesses, with a slam depending on your choice. If you play the hand logically, every move is forced.

You win the first spade trick with dummy's king, noting that you have a simple finesse in clubs and two ways of finessing in diamonds. How should you proceed to develop two extra tricks to add to your 16 tricks in top cards?

Try a finesse with the jack of clubs first. If it wins you will need only three diamond tricks. You will cash the king of diamonds, and, if only low cards fall, you will next lead a low diamond toward dummy. If West plays low, finesse with dummy's nine to make sure of three tricks against even a bad break. If West shows out on the second diamond, take dummy's ace and return a diamond toward your jack.

Finesse Loses

In the actual hand, the club finesse loses to West's queen. Now you need all four diamond tricks. You must avoid the false "safety" play of taking the ace of diamonds first since it will not help you to find a singleton queen in the West hand.

The correct play is to begin the diamonds by leading a low card from the dummy, intending to finesse at once with the jack if East plays a low diamond. When East actually plays the queen you win with the king and cash the jack to confirm the 4-1 break. (This is the only 4-1 diamond break that permits you to win all four diamond tricks.) Then you lead a low diamond to win a finesse with dummy's nine.

Daily Question

Partner opens with 2-NT (22 to 24 points), and the next player passes. You hold S—J 10 9; H—8 4; D—10 8 7 6; C—Q 10 9 5. What do you say?

Answer: Bid 3-NT. As a rule, you raise with 4 points or more, and should pass this 3-point hand in this case, however, you have not on'y the 3 points but also three tens and a pair of nines which may be useful to partner.

Then, using both hands, roll the frosted edge in the coconut like a wheel.

Lay this on your pretty plate, fill or frost the top and repeat with the next layer or layers. Just that simple!

HINTS FROM Heloise

BY HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I always buy two or more pairs of plain nylon stockings of the same color. That way I have a mate left when one of them gets a run. However, with panty hose that wasn't possible — or so I thought, until I got the idea of cutting the legs off and saving the panty itself until I got another mated pair of stockings.

Then I sew them onto the panty so it won't show in case the wind should blow my dress. I use a whipped-over stitch and find these perfect for everyday use.

For those who have only one damaged panty hose stocking, try to match it and sew it on

Mary Coleman

By golly, it works, folks! Since panty hose cost so much more, I've been cutting the legs off the damaged hose and wearing the panty itself for everyday. I like 'em because they are the stretch type, they don't run and best of all they're free.

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

When I clean house, I tune my radio into the popular teenage station where I'm sure to hear "beat" music. I turn it up loud.

It makes my work go really fast because I hurry to get finished so I can turn it off!

June McGraw

Dear Coconut Lovers:

Remember little Jayne who wanted to know the best way to put coconut on her cake?

Well, I received many good ideas on this from you wonderful folks. But the most popular method of all was one which really took me by surprise (yes, I'm learning a lot too!), and it is obviously the easiest.

One letter, signed Grandma A., explained it best. (She said she learned the trick from her father, who was a baker.)

"To 'coconut' the sides of the layers, first spread some moist, short coconut shreds about an inch-and-a-half deep on a sheet of wax paper. After carefully brushing off loose cake crumbs, balance a layer on one hand and frost with icing only on the sides real good."

Then, using both hands, roll the frosted edge in the coconut like a wheel.

Lay this on your pretty plate, fill or frost the top and repeat with the next layer or layers. Just that simple!

My thanks to each of you for taking time to help Jayne with her problem and happy cake-edge rolling to you all . . . just don't let it get away from you like the gingerbread boy!

Love, Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For small, hard-to-reach spots like painting the inside of a cabinet, try using a plastic squeeze bottle full of paint and dribble it on your brush instead of backing out many, many times to dip that brush in the can.

If it's a large surface, set a plastic butter tub of the paint inside the work area where it can be reached easily.

Mrs. J. Bearman

Dear Heloise:

For the people who hang out washing.

If you'll take a card gable, sprinkling bottle and plastic bag to your clothesline, you can sprinkle your clothes, sort and fold them as you take them down.

The warm sun on your sprinkled clothes when folded does wonders for your ironing. Saves many steps, too.

Marie

Dear Heloise:

I found that plastic tablecloths and placemats with the grooves were hard to get clean when trying to wash them.

So now I use a liquid detergent and a piece of nylon net and scrub away. They come out looking good as new with little effort. Hooray for your nylon net!

Your Problems

Woman Criticizes Her Sitter For Eating, Burning, Marring

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been told I am critical, hard-headed, unsympathetic and a perfectionist. If you agree I will apologize in the front window of Macy's department store next Saturday at high noon.

I saw fit to criticize a sitter because she'd:

(1) Dug huge chunks of a ham which I had planned to serve to my bridge club.

(2) Ate nearly one-third of a coconut custard pie which had not been cut into.

(3) Left a permanent ring on top of the TV when she set down a wet glass.

(4) Burned a small hole in an upholstered chair. (Cigarette, of course.)

(5) Talked on the phone for one hour and 20 minutes and made it impossible for me to reach the house.

Comment, please. — Scarsdale

Dear Scars: If you hire this girl to sit for you again you have holes in your head, Woman.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Zelda and I have been married for three years. She is a lively girl and has always had a lot more energy than I have.

About six months ago my brother Dick started to take Zelda to the movies, bowling and a few other places because I was too tired. Last week Dick, who is a salesman, asked Zelda if she wanted to go on the road with him for a few days. She asked me if it was O.K. and I said yes, so she went. They got back yesterday and Zelda said she had a groovy time. She wants to go again soon.

A guy at work told me I must be crazy to allow this. I think he has a dirty mind. I talked it all over with my mother and she said it was perfectly all right because Dick is a blood relative. Do you agree? — Questions Raised blood relative. But he's your blood relative, not Zelda's, dummy. Put an end to this chumminess or you might wind up being your own brother-in-law. If Dick wants a female companion on his trips suggest that find a nice, single girl — and marry her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What would you do if you were 16 years old and your mother kept harping on how important it is to be a good girl and choose your friends carefully and have high standards and make the boys respect you and then you found out that she wasn't such a good girl when she was 16.

Her standards couldn't have been very high and she wasn't very careful about her choice of friends because she had a baby out of wedlock.

Would you obey her or would you laugh at her? — Buffalo Teen

Dear Buffalo Teen: The choice is yours, but you know what sometimes happens to people who laugh when there is nothing funny. Someone usually drops a butterfly net over them.

Did it occur to you that your mother loves you enough so that she doesn't want you to go through the hell she experienced when she was your age? It may well be that her mother didn't tell her anything and she had to pay an enormous price for her ignorance. If you disregard your mother's advice on the grounds that she is a poor example you are making a big mistake. She may be the best example after all.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1968)

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

WORK AND FRIENDSHIP JUST DON'T MIX! RIGHT □ WRONG □

Wrong. One company made a study of the workers' attitudes toward each other. Friendly departments produced 10 per cent more and 40 per less spoilage than the unfriendly ones. The spirit of cooperation and friendship is one of the most important factors in production.

Is human intelligence fixed at birth?

Yes — No —

No. Eye color, the number of fingers and toes, and probably the age at which a man will become bald are fairly well fixed. Intelligence may be, in the case of the feeble-minded or the genius. But usually intelligence is greatly influenced by environment. For example, studies at the University of Iowa found that the I.Q. of adopted children was closer to their foster parents than to their physical parents. Good training can often be reflected in the intelligence quotient.

Strong, domineering men are most likely to become leaders.

True — False —

False. Natural leaders are usually strong personalities, who have a far above average desire to dominate. But people don't like to be pushed around. A number of studies have shown that the most successful leader is one who can wheedle, persuade, or otherwise exercise his dominance in ways that do not arouse antagonism. If all he knows how to do is to "crack the whip," he is likely to be unpopular and rejected.

Protecting Youths From Exploitation

New state regulations for child labor are scheduled to go into effect in Wisconsin June 1. The rules have been approved by the commissioners of the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations. The approval came only after considerable study and discussion to set up regulations which would permit young people between the ages of 12 and 21 to obtain jobs and at the same time to guard them against exploitation or working in potentially hazardous jobs.

A review of the new rules shows that they are entirely reasonable. They continue a history of such regulation in this state which has taken the lead for several decades in assuring that conditions of employment for young people would be broad enough to put their energies and interests to work. At the same time, they

Modifying the Lindbergh Law

The United States Supreme Court has ruled that the capital punishment provision in the so-called Lindbergh kidnapping act is unconstitutional. But conservative critics of the Supreme Court should take a long look at the decision before they conclude that it is another step toward making crime easy.

The act, enacted in outrage after the son of Charles Lindbergh was kidnapped and killed 34 years ago, made transporting a kidnapped person across a state line a federal crime and it made possible the death penalty if the kidnapped person was harmed in any way.

But the part of the act which the court declared unconstitutional involved how the death penalty was related to the accused's trial. Under the act, only a jury could impose the death penalty. If the accused chose his right under the Sixth Amendment to trial by jury in a serious case, he was risking his life. He could plead guilty to avoid trial by jury and the possibility of a death sentence, but this violated the self-incrimination clause of the Fifth

New Freedoms in Czechoslovakia

Optimists have claimed for some time that the capitalist and the Communist worlds were moving closer together and that if we only had patience and prevented the outbreak of armed hostilities there would be nothing but economic competition in future years. The events in Czechoslovakia tend to bear out this theory, but the new policies have yet to be tested.

The new premier, Alexander Dubcek, has not only asked for opposition parties with the right to campaign, secret elections and a responsible legislature. Now his action program includes passports for all, an end to at least some censorship and a demotion for the authority of the secret police. While assuring the Soviet Union that he has no intention of breaking ties with Russia or of deserting the Communist ideology, Dubcek says that Czechs should be assured that "no citizen can be questioned by the state security for his political convictions" and that the police should no longer be used "to solve internal political questions" or to control "political convictions and personal opinions."

Most Communist countries have elaborate constitutions enunciating the rights of citizens but such constitutions are generally ignored by authorities. We have yet to see

John Denier, who has been electrifying Oshkosh, Ripon, and Neenah with his wonderful tight rope performances, will cross College Avenue on a tight rope on the level with the roofs of the buildings on Wednesday and Thursday, April 8th and 9th.

He will cross in the characters of the Genii of the Air, and as Jocko, the Brazilian Ape. He will cross with a wheelbarrow, blindfolded, enveloped in a sack, and perform his wonderful feats upon the Flying Trapeze, suspended in mid-air.

He will also give an entertainment in one of the public halls on both nights with his entire troupe, 15 in number, and with the celebrated Denier Brass and String Band.

No doubt there will be a rush of people from the country, as such a sight will not again be visible to the naked eye very soon.

Soldier in Vietnam Has Protest; He Can't Vote

Editor, Post-Crescent:

With all the protests of war, the draft, civil rights, and other important topics currently being debated, I feel I should lodge a protest of my own.

I am absolutely convinced that I am being unjustly persecuted, unfairly confined and exploited. I am genuinely unhappy with my government's attitude and treatment toward me. I realize the laws my government enacts upon me are first initiated in the minds of my fellow countrymen. Then listen, countrymen, to the situation you have placed upon me.

I am 19 years old, and I have been in Vietnam for three months. The ordeal of being away from my home, my girl, and friends for the duration of one year is certain to be an extremely unhappy one. Also, the possibility of meeting a fate so many of my contemporaries have suffered is worthy of great consideration. I could get killed.

My protest is not of my involuntary enlistment into the eliminate types and conditions of employment which could affect their physical and mental well-being. This approach is in complete contrast with the conditions which prevailed in the early decades of the century when the exploitation of children by industry was abominable.

The new rules cover such subjects as minimum ages in various types of employment, hours of work permitted, minimum ages for hazardous employment, and some well-defined exemptions. The penalty section for violations by employers is specific.

The work of the commission of the Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations and all those who helped in giving advice to the commission in its rewriting of the child labor rules deserves commendation. The rules are another indication that Wisconsin is a leader among the states in the field of human relations.

Amendment, according to the recent decision by the court.

Obviously removing the death penalty from the act in no way lessens the authority of the federal government and it has been fairly well demonstrated that the death penalty is little or no deterrent to murder or other serious crime. Criminals after all do not intend to get caught and brought to trial or they wouldn't take the risk in the first place.

The incidents indicate that there is often something wrong with legislation enacted in the emotion of the moment. Legislatures of course must reflect public opinion and public opinion is greatly influenced by events of the moment. Current dangers and problems also justify changes in legislation over long periods of time. An increase in kidnapping in the early 1930's may well have indicated that the crime should have been made a federal one.

But legislation should be the result of considerable study and calm consideration and not enacted out of either fear or revenge.

what happens if Dubcek's reforms are actually put into practice in Czechoslovakia. But there does seem to be some reason for hope that some of them will occur. For one thing, the new regime appears to have a considerable support from Czechs who may not leave the country or even vote for someone else if they get the chance.

Czechoslovakia differs from the other Eastern European Communist countries in that it was a democracy once upon a time and it never showed signs of coveting its neighbors' property. The overrunning of Czechoslovakia by the Nazis and then the forced Communist coup engineered by the Russians after World War II were deplored in the United States in great part because of Czechoslovakia's traditions of freedom resembling our own. During the years it has been controlled by the Communists, it has been the most Stalinized of the satellites with extremely strict and conservative policies.

But ideas are hard to kill. Presumably Premier Dubcek is a dedicated Communist — but he seems to believe that communism and political and civil liberty can exist in the same nation. We'd like to believe he is right, but we have yet to see it happen, even in Czechoslovakia.

Christians Retrace Somber Path
Jesus Took on Way to Calvary

BY GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

The brave also fall. The innocent suffer. The good men are laid low. "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" It was the ancient Psalmist's cry, and it echoes down the troubled trail of time.

Yet hints of hope mark that rugged road. The noblest and the best have walked there. It's rough, and in a mystery, redemptive. It is the course of the King, the Way of the Cross.

"Surely he has borne our griefs," the prophet Isaiah foresaw. "He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities... with his stripes we are healed."

STRANGE AND SOMBER PATH

In this season commemorating the death and resurrection of Jesus, believers reflect particularly on that strange and somber path he took, and seek to enter into its meaning.

By long church tradition, Christians regularly have fo-

Helped Marine Sergeant

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The newsletter staff of the Americanos and Toros Drum and Bugle Corps received this letter recently from one of the former corps members. Although it is directed to the boys that are now members of the corps, we would like to share it with the people of Appleton.

DEAR AMERICANOS,

This is a letter of thanks. It is a letter of thanks to you, an organization that helped me to become a proud citizen of the U.S.A.

I am an ex-Americanos, and in the six years that I was with you, I learned things that will help me for the rest of my life. We were not a winning corps, and to bring a trophy home was really a rare treat. But we did bring many other valuable things home and I first realized this when I went to college. I had learned exactly what it was like to work long and hard for something I wanted and I learned to never give up just because I stumbled a couple of times. I also knew that I must be willing to go without a lot of the "good times" if I wanted to reach my goal. You taught me these things and more.

When I joined the Marine Corps, all of these lessons helped me more than I can say. In boot camp, I knew more than others, the importance of giving a 100 per cent effort, and, again the importance of never giving up. I knew how to take and carry out orders. I was accustomed to making new friends, and here I saw, close up, what it meant to be a good American.

Today, I am proudly serving my country in Okinawa in direct support of Vietnam, have a platoon of men that I am responsible for and know how to work with these men because of Drum Corps.

No, the corps that I knew didn't win many competitions, but I would not trade my experiences and lessons learned for anything in the world. Because of drum corps, I know that pride, honor, and patriotism are not dirty words, despite what we read and hear today.

Americanos is the Spanish word for American and as an American, I thank you and salute you.

Wisconsin Report
If Humphrey Enters
Race He Still Has
Many Friends in State

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — If Vice President Hubert Humphrey, after two loyal terms of service under President Lyndon B. Johnson, becomes heir presumptive to the Johnson command of the Democratic party, thousands of Wisconsin working Democrats will find themselves in the most awkward positions of their lives.

For during 20 years of service in high public office, Humphrey has made more friends among the leaders and the workers of the state party than any national figure who can be named. Before Wisconsin elected the first Democratic senator in several decades, with the William Proxmire "breakthrough" in 1957, the man from Minnesota was affectionately called "the third senator from Wisconsin" by his liberal friends here. This was a kind of oblique declaration that they found more solace in his neighborly help than they were able to find in the Republican senators of the state who had served for many years before that time.

OFTEN VISITED STATE

Humphrey has probably appeared on the campaign stump on behalf of more of the contemporary Wisconsin Democratic leadership than any other man. His experience as the chief architect of the Minnesota Farmer-Labor Party was invaluable when the younger Democratic politicians of this state, mourning the decline of the old Progressive Party, started putting together a viable Democratic organization in the years immediately following World War II.

With such men as Sen. Gaylord Nelson, who must be classified as the most successful Wisconsin Democratic politician of his generation, his friendship is an old and enduring one. He has the same kind of relationship with hundreds of lesser figures in the party. Perhaps more important than any of these, he is clearly the favorite of the forces of organized labor, however its muscle is measured in a typical Wisconsin situation.

Time Is Now to Get
On Rights Bandwagon

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I grew up in Appleton, and was always acutely aware of the absence of Negroes because my very young life was surrounded with them in Beloit. I was also acutely aware of the "unwritten law" that used to exist in Appleton that prevented them from living with us. When baseball teams were in town I could see a Negro, but he was different because he was a celebrity. Nevertheless I felt a little sick at heart when I passed them on the street.

But I have never felt as sick at heart as I do today when I realize that there are no Negroes in Appleton for whom Martin Luther King died. The profound prejudice in Appleton will live on in grateful hearts that would rather fight an immoral war than help their own fellow man. You people in Appleton, I'm sick of hearing lip service to the life and great works of Dr. King. (And so is the Negro tired of lip service, by the way.) So Americans have been, through their apathy and "divisiveness" (Oh Mr. Johnson!), responsible for what we will see and very likely feel this summer. And still people go to church and pray for peace, talk to their friends, mumble little eulogies for a lost hero and in the end, after Amen is sounded, the soul is free.

Well, if there ever was a time to get on the bandwagon of civil rights, it is now, while it has momentum. We are at a very precarious point in American history. We are dealing with the Negro who lives in the cities and by the nature of his central location he has a great deal of power, not to accomplish for himself, but to destroy the city and society. Up until now it has been OK for us to believe that Negroes

In 1960 Humphrey made a strong campaign here in the presidential preference primary against the late John F. Kennedy. Many of his friends, and some sideline observers, believe that the contest would have been virtually a standoff, or that Humphrey might have had a narrow win, except for the enormously superior financial resources of the Kennedy organization and the men and machinery they were able to corral as a consequence. To reporters who watched that fight, the memory persists of Humphrey bumping along the roads on a slow bus, while his rival was criss - crossing the state in the comfort of a costly private plane.

FUTURE IS UNCERTAIN

It is not yet certain that Humphrey will enter the fight, or if he does, that LBJ will abandon his posture of retirement from the ring to give a helping hand to his faithful subordinate and partner.

But it is widely presumed that he will do so soon, and if that comes to pass, there will be many a Democrat who will search his heart to determine where his real loyalty lies.

Already some of them are saying privately that the Johnson view on some issues was not necessarily that of his vice president's, and if Humphrey is free to speak he will evolve his own programs on many of the crucial issues including the diplomatic and strategic considerations in the Vietnam War.

As Wisconsin goes to the Chicago convention in August Humphrey will have only a handful of delegates in his corner, in all probability, even if he makes a serious bid for the nomination during the next few weeks. Sen. McCarthy, his colleague from Minnesota, corralled 49 out of Wisconsin's 59 votes in the presidential primary. Under law they are bound until they are released, or until it appears that he cannot win the nomination.

MIGHT FAVOR HUMPHREY

Yet there persists a widespread doubt that McCarthy will reach the finish line in his fight with Kennedy for convention delegates. In that event, don't count Humphrey out as a Wisconsin favorite. The released McCarthy delegates, if it comes to that, are at least as likely to enlist under the banner of their own other and long standing Minnesota friend than to join Kennedy — unless Kennedy has a majority committed before the convention gavel falls.

aspire to be like whites, but the tide is turning, and I feel that it may in fact be crimson. It may be too late to show your fellow man you are sorry. It is too late to repeat pious platitudes that show your ignorance of the conditions in America that cause and perpetuate the plight of the Negro and, for that matter, all the poor of America. And if you value your friends so much that you are unwilling to lose them in the struggle to right your wrongs then there is little hope for you because like Martin Luther King said, "I cannot be what I ought to be until you are what you ought to be."

Some Firms
Didn't Lower
Their Flags

Editor, Post-Crescent:

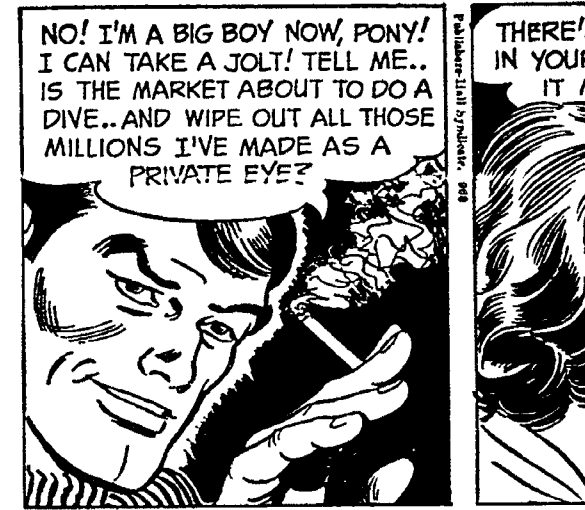

I would like to register just a small complaint against those firms in our town that did not see fit or feel at all obligated to show any sign of respect for the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King — not even the flag was lowered to half-mast on the day of the funeral.

Indifference such as this seems to be one of the main factors in the slow progress being made in the civil rights movement. True, there isn't much that one individual or one small company can do, but when multiplied by all the insensitive individuals and companies throughout the United States, this apathy impedes whatever goals we are striving toward.

Make Your Own Target for This Fun Bean Toss Game

BY CAPPY DICK

Ten paper towel cores glued together and wrapped with mending tape (as shown in the picture) form the target for a bean-toss game which is today's fun-project for boys and girls. The object of the game is to toss 10 beans into the tubes, scoring the points assigned to the tubes in which they land.

10 Towel Cores

Place the tubes so that the row of four faces the tosser who must stand six feet away and toss the beans. If a bean lands in one of those four tubes it scores two points.

If it lands in the next row of three tubes it scores three points. If a bean lands in one of the two tubes in the next row it scores four points and if it lands in the single tube forming the rear point of the triangle it scores five points.

Each player is given 10 beans and he tosses them one at a time. A record is made of his score. It is then the next player's turn to toss 10 beans.

The player who has the highest score when all have played is the winner of the game.

Monday: Lots more good fun for every boy and girl!

Ralph Boston Will Try for Olympic Team

Changes Mind After Withdrawal in Wake Of King's Murder

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Ralph Boston says he was upset over the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr. last week when he said he would not try out for the U.S. Olympic Track and Field team.

"I was not myself. But unless you are a Negro you cannot imagine what Dr. King's death meant," the stellar long jumper told an audience of athletes recently in announcing he had changed his mind and would try out for the team.

"I was ignoring what President Johnson said the night of the assassination. He asked the nation to remain calm. I did not and it was my fault.

"You know all those things that Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown have said? They go through your mind, even if you don't believe them. When something like this happens, when you're thinking irrationally, then suddenly they seem right."

Boston who shares the world long jump record, said he would try to make the U.S. team and would dedicate his efforts at the Olympics to King's memory. He said he will retire afterward.

er's office has been expanded and remodeled.

Attractive new concession stands have been readied under the grandstand. Public rest room facilities have been expanded and remodeled.

New hot water heaters have been installed, and boiler room has been plastered and repainted.

To increase spectators' comfort, all grandstand seats are having backs installed, and bleacher seats are being repaired and repainted.

Other exterior projects include: construction of a sidewalk around the clubhouse; a seal coat cover for the drive-in area in front and under the bleachers; sodding of the plate and dugout area; planting of clubhouse shrubbery; and refurbishing of the main entrance.

The city will pay for all of the improvements with the exception of the clubhouse and concession stands.

Bud Koehnke, Appleton Recreation Department director, and his crew have joined forces with Baetz and his volunteer workers during the 7-month project.

For Baetz, who has been on the job almost daily since last September, this has been a labor of love. He is receiving no pay for doing what has amounted to a full-time job. But, he couldn't have been more enthusiastic if he were getting paid.

It has taken the efforts of many to turn Goodland Field into an out s t a n d i n g minor league plant. Baetz, who has coordinated the various labor contributions, reports that the cooperation has been exceptional. In addition to help from ARD employees and Foxes directors masons and other unions have donated time.

Though finding it impossible to name everyone who has pitched in, Baetz noted that special talent contributions have been made by electricians Milton Kranzusch and Del Lambie, Rollee Choudoir, Johnny Bauer and a crew of plumbers; painters Elmer Schabo, Johnny Coy, Joe Vandelberg, Sheldon Baetz, C. Ashel, Larry Keller and Tom Strassman; carpenters Elmer Gill, John Palmbach and Larry Withuhn; and Jim Choudoir, in a number of projects.

Besides taking the "open house" tour Sunday, fans at Goodland Field will be able to purchase shares of stock in the baseball club, opening-day tickets, book tickets, season tickets and banquet tickets.

Expulsion From Track Team Possible for Beamon, 6 Mates

The UTEP team left for Utah today by airplane, and Coach Wayne Vandenberg said the seven athletes would be off the team if they were not on the plane.

The seven athletes issued a statement Thursday they would not attend the meet because of what they said is a belief at the Mormon-operated BYU "that the blacks are inferior and that we are disciples of the devil."

"When you shoot a 67 you can't say you're not putting well," he said," but I really wasn't doing well at all. I was stroking the ball very well, but it just wouldn't go in the cup."

He missed six birdie putts on the front nine, two from six feet, one from 10 and another from 12.

"I'm hitting the ball the absolutely best I have in my career," said the 1961 Masters champion who has been in virtual retirement since 1966.

He birdied all four par 5 holes, each with two putts; chipped to within 18 inches for another, pitched to within two feet for still another, and ran in birdie putts of 10, 20, and 6 feet.

But while Player was putting his game together on beautiful approach shots, it was January's chipping game that kept him together.

He chipped in for an eagle from 100 feet away on the 520-yard 15th and from 25 feet out on the 11th. "I'm going to stop going for the greens," January cracked. "I don't want to putt anymore."

"You know, it's a strange thing. I normally chip in once about every third year. I did it seven times in the last two tournaments and now three times in two rounds here."

Palmer, who had never before missed the cut here, had four bogeys, a double bogey and a triple bogey 8, the latter on the 15th where he put two shots in the water.

Vandenberg said he was "just trying to act like a coach. We have certain regulations and rules. It's a shock to me and a grave disappointment."

Among the seven athletes is long jump world indoor record holder Bob Beamon, who crossed Negro picket lines earlier this year to compete in the New York Athletic Club's indoor meet at Madison Square Garden.

The announcement of the boycott follows an appearance during the weekend at El Paso of Dr. Harry Edwards, a leader of a Negro movement to boycott the Olympics, who charged that Vandenberg was exploiting Negro athletes.

Claim Mormon Discrimination 8 UTEP Trackmen Boycott BYU Meet

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Members of the University of Texas at El Paso track team, minus other Negro athletes remained in El Paso, Tex., in a self-imposed boycott over participation in the meet Saturday afternoon.

UTEP track Coach Wayne Vandenberg said Friday he was sticking to the statement that any member of the squad who failed to participate in the meet has "voluntarily disassociated himself with the track team."

Vandenberg said the team was "very disappointed" over the action and was going to have to produce "some very exceptional performances" to win the meet.

Vandenberg said the eight-man group failed to report for a scheduled practice Monday but later came to his home and talked the matter over. He said the matter was apparently resolved when the group issued a public statement in El Paso, saying the reason for the boycott was a belief at BYU "that the blacks are inferior and that we are disciples of the devil."

Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, president of the Mormon-run university, said in a statement Thursday night the boycott was based on "erroneous information." He said BYU "does not discriminate because of race."

Gast had come on in relief of starter Gary Johnson, who hurled the first four frames and allowed five runs. The second of two Neenah pitchers, Bill Luebke, got credit for the win after taking over in the fifth.

Popp, Tim Bigalke, and Bill Luebke all had two hits for Neenah. Gary Johnson drove three Shiocton runs with a double and a single.

Charlie Paulk Talks Contract

No. 1 Draft Pick To Check ABA Before Signing

MILWAUKEE (AP)— Charlie Paulk, a 6-foot-9 Oklahoman who was the top college draft selection of Milwaukee's new pro basketball club, arrived in Milwaukee Friday to begin contract talks.

The city's National Basketball Association franchise has been bidding against the New Orleans member of the American Basketball Association for the 21-year-old standout from Oklahoma's Northeastern State College.

"I have a figure in mind," Paulk said prior to his Milwaukee contract discussions. "But I'd rather not share it with anyone else."

Talk With Mother

"I'm going to New Orleans Monday after talking with the Milwaukee people," he said. "After getting both offers, I'll think about it, talk it over with my mother, and then decide."

Paulk, originally of Memphis, Tenn., was accompanied to Milwaukee by his Northeastern State coach, Jack Dobbins, who said Paulk's decision "will be his own."

Paulk was named an alternate to the U.S. Olympic basketball squad. There was talk he might have been named among the team's first 12 players had he not been planning to turn professional instead of waiting six months until after the international games.

"If selected as one of the 12, it would have required tremendous thought on my part because of the honor of representing my country," Paul said. "But now, as an alternate, I wouldn't go because I would be losing too much financially."

"It is very difficult for someone who doesn't have much money to be offered a great deal of it and not have it influence him," he added.

Democratic contest is Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota. Kennedy was in West Virginia today for a motor tour of mining counties where his brother struck a lode of support in the 1960 West Virginia primary.

McCarthy is spending the weekend in Washington. He took a breather from campaigning on Good Friday, although he did chat for a few moments with newsmen in Boston.

He criticized the "quibbling" between the United States and North Vietnam about the site of preliminary peace talks as "pretty silly."

McCarthy also said he is unconvinced that the administration would be willing to deal directly with the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, or accept a coalition in South Vietnam to end the war.

"Mood Has Changed" "The mood of the country has changed," he said. "but White House policy, I'm afraid, hasn't changed that much."

The contest for the nomination is expected to become a three-way affair next week with the entrance of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

4 New Members Take Seats

Board Reorganization Slated for Winnebago

OSHKOSH — Four new board members will take their seats Tuesday as the annual organization meeting of the Winnebago County Board convenes.

Following the call to order by County Clerk Dorothy Propp, the oath of office will be administered to all board members by Judge Herbert J. Mueller.

Highlighting the two-day session will be the consideration of the board rules, high on the agenda. The judiciary committee will ask the board to incorporate a committee on committee and expand the functions of the personnel committee.

Standing Committees
If approved, the committee on committees, consisting of the board chairman, vice chairman and three board members, would recommend the membership of the county standing committees to the board.

This is now done by the board chairman who is aided by the vice chairman.

The second major change will be the expansion of the personnel committee to include several of the duties of the earlier proposed executive committee.

The executive committee was defeated by board vote in March, but the proposed functions of the personnel committee show definite compromise.

Eight Members
Pending board action, the personnel committee would consist of eight members chosen by the proposed committee on committees. Its duties would not include those of the finance committee.

Under the executive committee concept, the reorganization committee had proposed that the finance committee be dissolved and its functions come under the executive committee.

In effect, the personnel committee would retain its present duties and include other functions in hopes of streamlining county government.

During the first day of the board session, board members will elect a chairman, vice chairman and members of statutory committees and boards.

Serving on the board for the first time will be Ted Neely,

District 3, Hubert Sherman, District 1, and Robert Johnson, District 10. A former board member Herman Brandt, District 17, was also chosen for the board position at the April 2 election.

On Wednesday the board will hear the annual report of the Winnebago County Fair Association by its president Lewis Magnusen.

Among several resolutions the board will be asked to rescind a resolution requiring the highway department to advertise for bids.

Summer Events Start June 24 At Fox Center

Most of the classes are scheduled for late afternoon and evening hours to allow students to hold full-time jobs during the day. This scheduling also makes attendance possible for others who have daytime responsibilities.

The summer session is the first academic program of the new University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. Other UWGB summer sessions will run simultaneously at the Manitowish, Green Bay and Marinette centers. Fox Valley and the other three centers become campuses of the new university on July 1.

Resident fees range from $30 for one or two credits to $60 for five through eight credits. Non-resident fees are substantially higher.

6:30-7:30 — Channels 2-7 — The Honeymooners on the Jackie Gleason Show winds up their round-the-world excursion in the heart of Africa on a jungle safari. Again, it is Gleason's and Art Carney's show and a winning one at that as they play tag with a menacing gorilla and other assorted beasts. (C)

7:30-8 — Channels 2-7 — The beginning of the reruns on My Three Sons takes us back to prewedding days. In fact this episode is all about the Douglas move to California and even features the introduction of Tina Cole who will again become Robbie's bride later this summer. (C)

7:30-8 — Channel 5 — "The Man From Yenta" is as filling as a big bagel with loads of cream cheese on Get Smart. There is considerable nonsense in this meandering tale which has Don Adams up against a KAOS assassin who can impersonate almost anybody. (C)

7:30-8:30 — Channels 11-9 — The Lawrence Welk Show is a traditional presentation of Easter music opening with "Easter Parade." There is also "Sunrise Serenade" (Bob Ralston), "Peter Cottontail" (Sandy Jensen and Salli Flynn), "A Tiskit, A Taskit" (Jo Ann Castle), "The Holy City" (Joe Feeney), "It's Easter Time" (Dick Dale) and "The Lord's Prayer" (Norma Zimmer). (C)

8-8:30 — Channels 2-7 — John Banner as Sgt. Schultz is the hit of Hogan's Heroes in a slightly hysterical episode that features him as the target of a voluptuous Mata Hari. The seductress thinks she can lure some secrets from him but Schultz is like a clam. He does open up, however, to Hogan and the boys to boast of his romantic prowess which starts a whole new "thing" between the lady and the Heroes leader. Joyce Jameson is featured. (C)

8-10 — Channel 5 — "The Brass Bottle" on Saturday Night at the Movies is a must for I Dream of Jeannie fans. As you might suspect, the bottle is a magic container with a sly old genie inside. Burl Ives plays the amiable bumbler with Tony Randall as the man who uncorks him, and Jeannie's Barbara Eden as Tony's real-life girl friend. (C)

9-10 — Channels 2-7 — There are several guests but no real guest stars on Mannix as the lone wolf detective gets a truly lonely assignment. He goes to a small town to get a signature but finds his man dead and his house burned down. Further, the sheriff will not help him and in short order he finds both his communications with the outside and his transportation cut off, leaving him more than a bit apprehensive. (C)

Rosemary's Baby Stays Best-Seller

Paperback Edition Instant Hit; Movie Version Now Made

"Rosemary's Baby," chilling suspense novel by Ira Levin, which producer William Castle has filmed for Paramount Pictures, continues its exceptional long run on the New York Times best-seller list despite the fact that a paperback edition is in wide distribution.

The soft-cover book, in fact, has become an instant hit and is the largest-selling paperback in the city, according to a survey just published by the New York Post. The forthcoming motion picture gets prominent mention in this edition.

The New York Times, which publishes a national best-seller chart based on reports from 64 major U.S. communities, listed the original hard-cover edition of "Rosemary's Baby" in 10th place on March 31. The book, published by Random House, has been on the Times list for 41 weeks, the longest-running book on the chart in either fiction or non-fiction categories.

An exciting tale of modern day witchcraft in New York, "Rosemary's Baby" was published in April, 1967, and has been a national best-seller ever since. Book reviewer Eliot Fremont-Smith cited the work as one of the best novels published in the past year.

The film version of "Rosemary's Baby" stars Mia Farrow and co-stars John Cassavetes, Ruth Gordon, Sidney Blackmer, Maurice Evans and Ralph Bellamy. The technicolor movie was filmed in New York City and at Paramount Studios in Hollywood.

Chief of Vietnamese Police Emerges as Dynamic Man

Impression of leader as Ruthless Changes With Close Association

EDITOR'S NOTE—In the midst of the Tet offensive AP photographer Edward T. Adams made a picture that gave millions of people around the world an insight into the grimness of the Vietnam war. It showed Saigon's national police chief, Nguyen Ngoc Loan, firing his pistol at a Viet Cong suspect. Since that time Adams has traveled extensively with Loan and seen firsthand some of the facets of his nature.

By EDWARD T. ADAMS
Associated Press Photographer
SAIGON (AP) — The chief of South Vietnam's national police, Nguyen Ngoc Loan, is one of the country's most controversial leaders.

The Viet Cong hate him, and so do others not associated with the Communist-led movement. He is a hero to the men who work under him, and to not a few admirers of efficiency. To them, charges of ruthlessness are offset by the dangers that plague the government Brig. Gen. Loan serves.

When I first came upon Loan, two months ago, he was firing at the head of a man in a plaid shirt.

The general had appeared suddenly that morning near An Quang Pagoda. Saigon was reeling under the onslaught of the Tet offensive. The man in the plaid shirt had just been captured. Loan executed him in a split second.

My first impression was that the thin-faced Loan was a cold, callous killer. Since then, I have traveled for days across the country with him.

He is a product of modern Vietnam and his time.

Severely Criticized
Many think he represents the worst in Vietnam. He has been criticized severely by some American and Vietnamese officials and by some Vietnamese politicians. He has been accused of using "Hitler" tactics, illegal arrests, torture and police-state methods.

He usually participates personally in the arrest of important political figures, often brandishing a weapon and shouting or bullying down any opposition.

When Nguyen Cao Ky maneuvered the generals against Nguyen Khanh in 1965, Loan was at his side, first as deputy, then as chief of military intelligence. When Ky was premier, Loan was his chief weapon against rebellious Buddhists.

Last July, when a national assembly was voting whether to allow Nguyen Van Thieu and Ky to run for president and vice president, Loan and several armed henchmen made their way to the balcony to glare at members as the vote was taken. The vote went the way Loan wanted.

Widely Feared
Not only dissident politicians and shaven-headed Buddhists fear Loan. Mop-haired students stay out of his way as well. Recently Loan was seen driving a barber around Saigon in his jeep. When they spotted a long-haired "cowboy," the jeep would come to a screeching halt and the barber would give the cowboy a forceful haircut.

At the same time, Loan can be warm and generous. He demonstrates a fervent loyalty to his men and his country.

During the Tet fighting Loan was repeatedly out in front, leading his police in efforts to wipe out Viet Cong who had invaded the capital. He was wounded slightly three times.

"His men believe that he can walk on water and is bullet-proof," said a U.S. police adviser who has worked closely with Loan for two years. "Loan has three qualities which are needed for leadership. He is positive, efficient and realistic."

Another American adviser said Loan has "done more for his men than any of the nine previous directors of the national police. He has gotten them more pay and better living conditions."

Refused Promotion
The general was Vietnam's first pilot qualified to fly jets, and recently he turned down promotion to major general.

"I would take the second star only if many of my men receive promotions they well deserve," Loan said. "Some of my former classmates are only majors or lieutenant colonels now and I'm a general. I think eventually they will see it my way."

Loan was born in Hue in 1930, the oldest of three sons in a fairly wealthy family. One brother is a medical doctor and the other is the director of a youth center. Five daughters in the family are associated with medicine or pharmacology.

As a boy he was active in the Buddhist Boy Scout movement. Later he attended the universities of Hanoi and Saigon, studying pharmacy.

72,000 Men
While still in school, he was called up for military service and the career was launched that was to make him director general of the national police, commanding 72,000 men.

Loan was first in his class at the reserve officer's academy, where Ky was a classmate. They have been close since that time and both are air force pilots.

Loan became a second lieutenant in 1951, then spent 3½ years attending military schools in France. He also attended the U.S. Command and Staff College.

Returning to Vietnam, Loan held various posts in the air force and took part in 1965 in the first joint Vietnamese-U.S. air raid over North Vietnam.

The father of three girls and one boy, Loan is a good swimmer and likes to play soccer, basketball and table tennis. The family lives in a modest home on Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base.

He likes music, Oriental or Western.

Plays Mandolin

At a party for Hue students, Loan took over the drums in a small band and managed to keep the rhythm going. Another time, he picked up a mandolin and strummed "Home on the Range."

He also likes to play with the siren on his police jeep, which always carries a bottle of cognac. When he wants a drink, he takes it regardless of where he may be.

He has gathered a personal staff handpicked from elite airborne, ranger and marine officers and noncommissioned officers. One man tells jokes. Another is an expert at cards. Another is a musician.

Although he often wears a uniform, Loan's favorite garb is a sports shirt hanging over his trousers, sandals and no socks.

No one knows where the general might be going when he leaves his Saigon headquarters. He keeps in touch with his office by radio and with escort vehicles—heavily armed—by walkie-talkie.

All Talk
The police general dislikes politicians because "all they do is talk and not take action."

He believes South Vietnam's army, regional and popular forces and civilian irregulars should be combined to make one fighting force. And he says he and his men feel that much of the money spent to send U.S. soldiers to Vietnam could be used better to equip and train properly at least three South Vietnamese divisions. "This would save more U.S. lives," he observes.

Pointing to a formation of combat police, Loan says:

"These kids hate Communists. I never told them about the Communists. I don't have to, but they know what would happen to each and every one of them if they were captured. They don't even know what the war is all about, they just want to live."

Military Man
As for the curbside execution and the publicity that followed, he recalls, "Many men were getting killed and wounded and I had many things on my mind at the time. I am a military man and not a politician. The picture was just an unfortunate situation."

Vietnamese officials said the victim of the execution was identified by another Viet Cong prisoner as a man named Nguyen Tan Dat alias Hoan Son, the leader of a Viet Cong sapper unit. They said he was captured near the pagoda, firing out of a second-story window at firemen trying to halt a blaze set by the Viet Cong. He killed a policeman who attempted to capture him, they said, and when seized and questioned, he spat in the face of the interrogating officer. He was taken around a corner where he was met by Loan.

Loan said later he wasn't aware that AP and NBC cameramen had taken pictures of the shooting.

Excessive Speed Costs Wausau Man $20 Fine

WAUPACA — Ronald W. Ostrander, 56, Wausau, was fined $20 and costs Thursday when he appeared before Justice George Whalen in Municipal Justice Court on a charge of speeding 70 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone.

Ostrander was arrested by county police during a radar check on U.S. 10 March 17. He pleaded innocent to the charge March 28.

Scattered Sniper Fire Still Hits Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Scattered sniper fire disrupted a strict curfew Friday night as Kansas City's racial unrest tapered off after three nights of violence in which six Negroes were shot to death.

Developing Leadership Among Blacks Goal of Student Negro Group

NE WYOR K (AP) — The youth group of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) has been revitalized with an aim toward developing black leadership, a spokesman says.

Leonard DeChamps, national director of the student arm, known as the Students Congress of Racial Equality (SCORE) said Friday: "The purpose of SCORE is to get black youth who now have nothing to do but wander in the streets to get more than a job, to contribute to the economic institutions of America. It's to develop black leadership that will save the country."

Soviet Seamen Ask Protection From China

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Maritime Union has asked the Soviet government to "take measures so that China will give assurances" that attacks on Soviet ships in Chinese ports will not recur.

The request resulted from what the Soviets called a "hooligan attack" April 3 on crewmen of the Komsomolyets Ukrainy, a tanker bound for North Vietnam, when the ship was at Whampoa near Canton.

2 Passenger Trains Cut By C&NW

Served Eastern Wisconsin; Firm Cites Huge Loss

CHICAGO (AP) — A four-year experiment in increased passenger service for eastern Wisconsin communities is being abandoned by the Chicago and North Western Railway, which cited what it said is a $5 million operating deficit.

Larry S. Provo, railway president, said Friday the line will cease running passenger trains 162X and 147X, which have served Chicago, Green Bay, and Milwaukee.

Provo said the experiment cost the railway $225,000 last year, and that total service losses were nearly $5 million.

Postal Decision
Contributing to the decision, he said, are a 20 per cent increase last year in passenger-service loss, and the Post Office Department's decision to discontinue revenue-producing rail mail services.

The postal action also was cited by the Milwaukee Road as a reason for canceling the Copper Country Limited between Chicago and Calumet, Mich. The cancellation was approved earlier this year by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Provo said his railway's new schedule affecting Wisconsin goes into effect May 6.

Trains being discontinued are the 162X which runs afternoons from Green Bay to Chicago, and the 147X which runs mornings from Chicago to Milwaukee.

This, he said, will mean a reduction on weekdays of a train each way between Green Bay and Chicago via Manitowoc and Sheboygan.

As compensation, he said, the 121X will be retained as a regular train.

A second Sunday run between Milwaukee and Green Bay will be added, and there will be several shifts in schedules along the Lake Michigan shore route, he said.

Too Much Commuting Makes Mayor Resign

FERGUSON, Mo. (AP) — John G. Brawley, mayor of Ferguson, who worked in New York chose not to run for re-election after deciding that commuting 1,000 miles was too much of a chore.

Now that he has turned over his gavel to a new mayor, Brawley said Friday, Trans World Airlines has transferred him back to the St. Louis area. He is area manager of reservations for TWA.

"If I had known earlier I would be coming back here," said Brawley, "I would have seriously thought about running again."

Beatle Returns Home After Visit With Guru

LONDON (AP) — Beatle John Lennon and his wife Cynthia arrived back in London Friday night after cutting short their stay at the Maharishi Yogi's meditation center in India.

Lennon declined to talk about his reasons for leaving after slipping almost unnoticed through London airport.

George Harrison is still in India. The other two Beatles, Paul McCartney and Ringo Starr, returned home last month.

White Racism 'Confessed' By Marchers

CHICAGO (AP) — About 400 white persons staged a Good Friday march through four western Chicago suburbs to bear witness to white racism in America.

"We are simply confessing our white racism," said the Rev. George Hrbeck, director of the Lutheran Human Relations Commission which sponsored the march.

"We believe the Kerner commission is correct in stating that racism is the root cause of the racial crisis here, and we hope to dramatize this by our march and stimulate constructive action," he said. He referred to the President's Commission on Civil Disorders.

The marchers were mostly women and high school and college students.

Burglars Loot Oakwood Hills Supper Club

Peel Safe, Force Cash Drawers in $1,700 Break-in COMBINED LOCKS — Burglars fled with more than $1,700 Thursday night or early Friday after peeling a safe and breaking into cash registers at Oakwood Hills Supper Club.

The burglary was discovered about 5:30 a.m. by two cleaning women, who immediately notified police.

Outagamie County Sheriff's investigators and Combined Locks police said that entry into the supper club was gained by using a double-pronged pry bar to force a northeast door leading to a dining room. Investigators said they believed at least two persons entered the building.

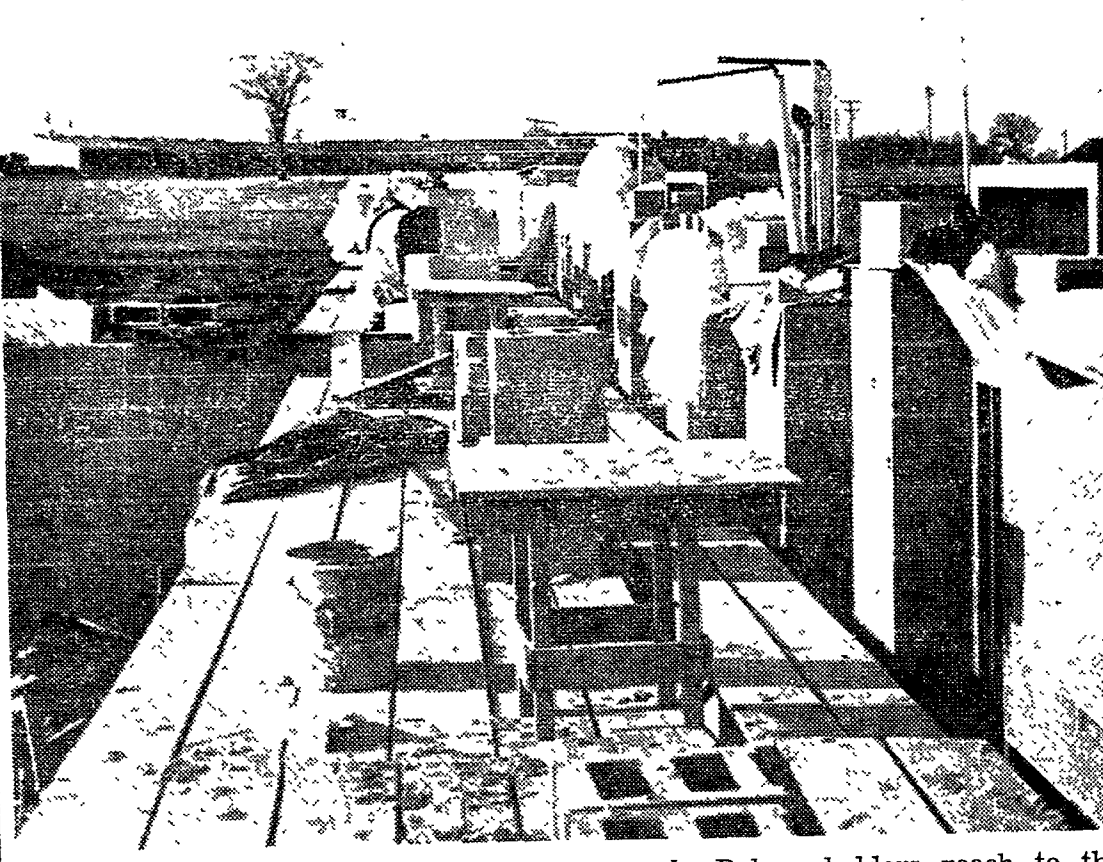

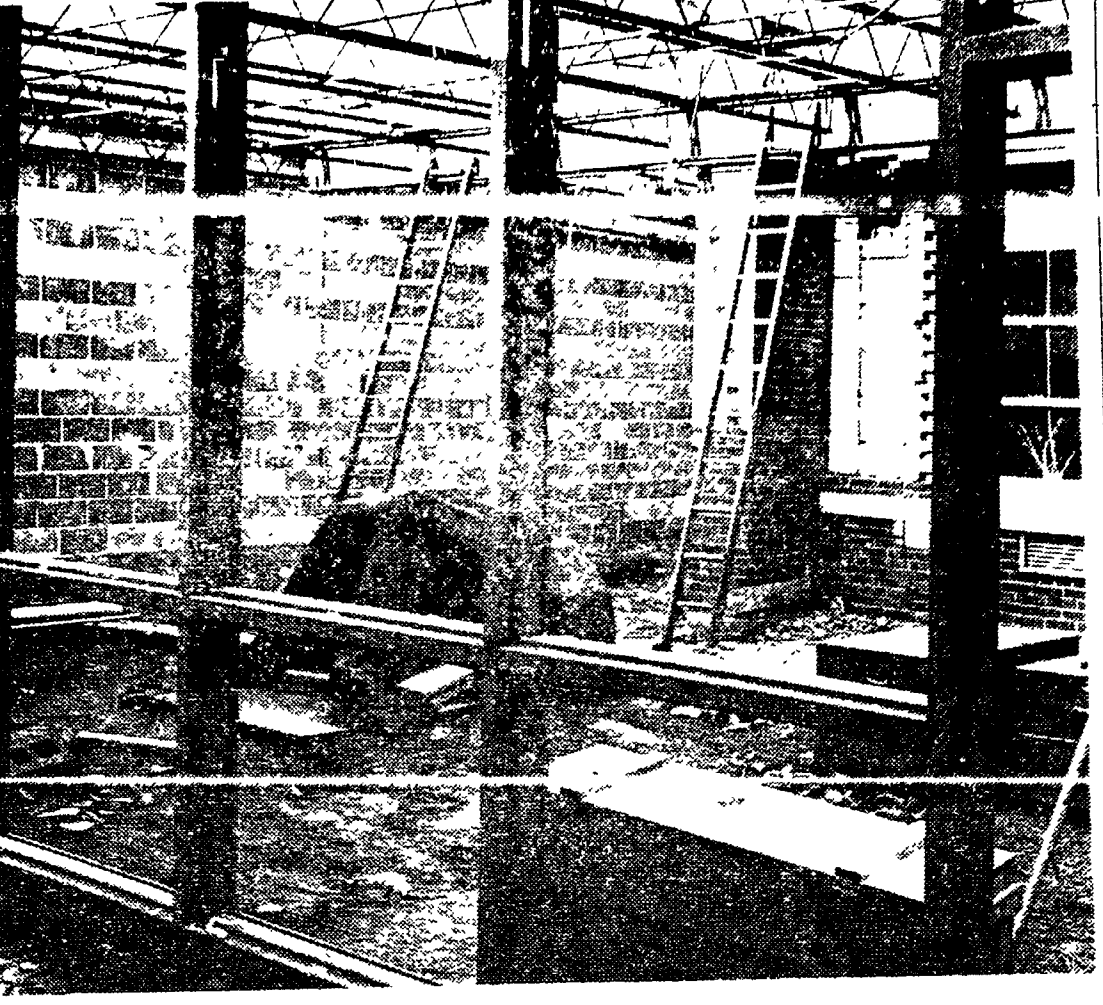

The burglars then forced an inside office door and dragged a two-foot square safe, weighing about 400 pounds across the floor and into a hallway.

Peel Door
The burglars then tipped the safe and, using a pry bar and chisel, peeled the door and smashed the lock.

Three of the four cash drawers in the bar also were entered. The burglars did not tamper with a fourth drawer or with a juke box or cigarette vending machine, leading police to believe they may have been frightened away. Combined Locks police checked the supper club about 1:45 a.m.

The loot, totaling $1,707.25 included $400 in non-negotiable checks, sheriff's investigators said. Police said the supper club was closed about 10 p.m. Thursday.

The same club was the site of a $4,000 safe burglary in 1965.

Outagamie Board Faced With Chairmanship Fight

Esler Has Two Challengers for Top Post; Jail, UW Center Issues Promise Controversy

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Outagamie County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler will have opposition from at least two supervisors in his bid for a second two-year term as board chairman.

Opposition to Esler, Appleton, who represents the 19th District, is expected to come from Supvs. Patrick Mares and Eugene Kloes, both of Appleton. A possibility of a fourth candidate exists but thus far only Esler, Kloes and Mares are actively courting support of other supervisors.

The battle for the chairmanship is only one of a number of issues facing the new board when it meets for its organizational session starting Tuesday. A two-day meeting has been scheduled with a strong possibility of running into a third day.

Tuesday will be devoted to organizational matters, including the election of a chairman and the seating of nine new county board members. Debate on resolutions is not expected to come until Wednesday when the new committees have been formed.

Controversial Issues

Some of the more controversial items coming before the board include the perennial jail remodeling question, adopting of a county sanitation code and restricting parking around the courthouse.

Both Mares and Kloes said they are seeking support for the chairmanship. Mares has been board vice chairman under Alvin Fulmer but lost to Esler two years ago in a bid for the chairmanship and then lost to Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, for the vice chairmanship.

Mares said he would not seek the vice chairmanship if he fails to win the top position, but would seek to be put back on the public properties and insurance committee of which he is now vice chairman. Kloes is chairman of the courts, justice and enforcement committee.

Elections Tuesday

Sequence of action Tuesday will be election of a board chairman, vice chairman, highway committee, executive committee and committee on committees.

The board is then expected to adjourn until Wednesday for the committee on committees to draw up the recommendations for appointment to the other standing committees.

At least four new members will be seated on the powerful executive committee and the turnover could go higher. Three veteran supervisors who were on the executive committee, Emmett Root, Chris Roepecke and Stanley Perkins, were defeated in their bids for re-election to the county board and a fourth, George Greisch, did not seek re-election. The county board chairman and vice chairman automatically are members of the committee.

Much of the controversy Wednesday can be expected to center around four resolutions with the jail issue again drawing most of the comment.

The county is under a state order to commence remodeling or construction of a new jail within six months or the present facility will be closed.

Interview Architects

A joint finance-public properties committee resolution had directed the public properties committee to interview county architects who are members of the American Institute of Architects (AIA) and make a recommendation on the hiring of an architect to the board. Architect Raymond LeVe, who has been working on jail remodeling plans without a formal contract from the county, is not a member of the AIA and would be eliminated from consideration by the resolution.

A proposal to restrict parking around the courthouse is expected to arouse some opposition from supervisors. An original proposal to request the city to install parking meters has been dropped in favor of reducing the present four-hour parking zones on Seventh Street and Walnut Street to two hours.

The parking meter plan was dropped after it was learned that it cost between $80 and $110 per meter for installation.

Turn Over UW Center

The board also will be asked to approve a resolution calling for the Fox Valley Extension Center to be turned over to the State Coordinating Commission for Higher Education (CCHHE) to operate. The resolution would not take effect unless Winnebago County, which jointly operates the center, takes similar action.

Another request which can be expected to provoke discussion is from the park and recreation committee which is seeking authority to start condemnation proceedings on a 20-acre parcel of land at Mosquito Hill. The property, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Magolski, is the last large piece of land in the project on which the committee has not secured purchase options.

Buckley wrote Holmer early in April indicating as far as he was concerned "there will be no further informational hearings" on Appleton's pending municipal water project.

Best Solution

He said the project has been "thoroughly scrutinized and approved by experts as the best immediate solution to Appleton's urgent water problem."

In a letter to Buckley March 18, Holmer suggested another hearing on the pipeline and filtration plant addition plans. He said there were many Appleton residents and others in the pipeline vicinity who were concerned.

Buckley said it was his personal opinion now that all necessary hearings have been had and objections aired, and other city officials "have indicated they have run the gamut" and are concentrating on preparations. Buckley asked the city planner, attorney and public works director for their opinions.

Unlawful Restrictions Old Deeds Bar Sales to Negroes

OSHKOSH — "It is further agreed by the parties hereto, that the said premises or any part thereof, shall not be sold or resold to Negroes," according to deed restriction on lots in Lakeview Park plat which includes the Menominee Drive area.

"No person of any race other than Caucasian shall own, use, lease, or occupy any building or lot on said premises excepting in the case of domestic servants employed by or residing with owners or tenants," is the protective agreement attached to the Eichstadt subdivision at the city's north end.

Almost the same provision is attached to Palisades Plat in the Town of Menasha and to others in this area.

They are fairly common, say those who have occasion to see Oshkosh deeds frequently. Yet, they are patently illegal.

A decision by the U. S. Supreme Court outmoded such provisions completely finding them unconstitutional. Abstracters, however, are required to record the history of the land and, so the restrictions remain in the deeds.

Whether or not these restrictions might be heeded in the sale of houses is largely untested, for few Negroes have sought to buy homes in Oshkosh. But one Oshkosh Human Rights Council last week that the provisions against selling against Negroes would have full effect in the sale of a property unless someone complained and brought the matter to court.

In that event, the court would rule the restrictions illegal.

Members of the Oshkosh Human Rights Council, readying a campaign for adoption of a local open housing ordinance, will use such examples of ancient discriminations to prove the need for specific open housing legislation at the municipal level.

Lakeview was platted in 1928. The Eichstadt Plat carries a 1947 date, and Palisades Plat is dated 1946.

Attorney Gary Yakes, chairman of title research, Winnebago County Bar Association, said covenants of the kind restricting sale of land to certain races were fashionable in the 1930's and 1940's. But he is unaware of any increase of non-Caucasian in this area during those years.

Such restrictions, he concludes, were valuable for their snob appeal on the basis that the more restrictive the plat or deed, the more plush and exclusive the neighborhood would be.

To such restrictions passing through his hands today he appends a note saying that they have no effect. Yakes said he has seen none, however, in the plats of the 1960's.

Zealous Attorneys

George Yost of Yost Abstract Company said he finds most of the sales restrictions in the 1940-50 plats. "Probably put there by over-zealous attorneys," he said, "or maybe to restrict lakefront property when Winnebago began to attract summer people."
